General Rain Hits County, But City Gets Very Little

North and South, Rainfall Is Reported Monday Night in Hempstead

RELIEF FROM HEAT

Wind Rakes Hope, Little Rain But Cooler Weather For City

A general rain accompanied by a high wind broke over Hempstead county about 6 o'clock Monday night, bringing further relief from this summer's record-breaking drought.

The City of Hope was whipped by a strong wind that bore little moisture. However, surrounding points in the county reported varying amounts of rainfall which was satisfactory in general.

County Gets Rain

Fulton and Cross Roads, west of the city, were visited by fairly heavy showers. Shover Springs and other points to the southeast got a good rain and precipitation, while light in Patmos was heavy below that point along the Hempstead-LaFayette county line.

Ozan, in the north end of the county, was visited by a worth-while rain, which was reported to have been much heavier toward Nashville.

Blevins and McCaskill were underlaid to have received considerable rain, phone communication between Hope and those points having been cut off through the breaking of the Prescott-Blevins line at the height of the storm Monday night.

The principal benefit to Hope was a sharp reduction in the temperature, the mercury dropping like a plummet from the 100-mark to below 80 degrees.

General Over State

Monday's storm here was one of a series of thundershowers that has been traveling over Arkansas, beginning Sunday. According to The Associated Press, Searcy recorded the greatest rainfall 4.97 inches Sunday night, and at Georgetown the fall was 3.40 inches.

Heaviest rains appeared centered throughout the northwest central portions of the state. A strip 125 miles long extending north and south and partially verging into the eastern section likewise was benefited.

Government crop experts believe these sections were most aided as the ones suffering most from the drought. Late fall plantings, particularly garden truck, assumed a rosier future than at any time during the summer.

Those two staple crops, cotton and corn, were for the first time benefited by rains sufficient to growing conditions.

Continued forecasts for showers, added to the fact that rains of varied proportions have fallen over most of the state during the past 48 hours, has been seen as a hopeful sign for final resolution of the 90-day period of drouth.

Little Rock northward heavy rain varying from one to three inches were the rule.

In the rich Beebe Garden section, truck farmers were making preparations for late fall plantings. Hot Springs and Little Rock both received heavy falls Sunday night and Monday, while water shortage at Clarksville was relieved with a down-pour.

84 Big Melons Sent to All Parts of U. S. A.

Express Agent Finds the Movement of Big Melons Is Under Way

Although the season is early for the biggest Hope watermelons, dozens of fair size have already been shipped all over the United States this season, according to Thompson Evans, local agent for the Railway Express Co. On account of the smaller size up to this time this year, not nearly so many large melons have been shipped as formerly, said Mr. Evans. He expects to see an increase in the number of melons shipped within the next week or two, to further spread the fame of Hempstead county melons.

Up to Tuesday morning large size melons have been shipped to the following cities. The weight of the shipment includes the crate, according to Mr. Evans.

Newark, N. J.	133 lbs.

Negro Taken From Jail By 200 Men

Negro Hanged About 15 Miles From Jail and Near His Home

GASTONIA, N. C., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Olliver Moore, 29 year old negro, was taken out of the county jail and hanged by about 200 masked men. This is the first hanging in North Carolina since 1921.

Moore was placed in an automobile and taken 10 miles and hanged near his home.

Deputy Sheriff Watson who with his family lives at the jail said he was awakened by someone who called his name. Thinking that the person who called was an officer with a prisoner he went to the door and asked, "Have you a man for me?" Some one in the audience answered in the affirmative. "I then opened the doors," said Mr. Watson and the mob rushed into the halls of the jail. They opened cell after cell before they found Moore and took him away.

Sheriff Bardin was notified and he, with some of his deputies searched for the lynchers but could not find them.

The negro had been charged with attacking two small white girls of the county.

Arkadelphia Bank To Rebuild at Once

Will Replace One Story Building with a Two-story Structure

ARKADELPHIA, Aug. 19.—W. B. East, announced that the bank will rebuild at once, placing a two-story building where the one-story structure burned early Friday along with the buildings of the Siftings Herald and the Pink Tea Grocery company. The new building will have larger quarters for the bank and offices upstairs to rent.

The bank is doing business across Sixty street, the site of the old building, occupying part of the Newberry Furniture company store.

Owners of the other lots are said to be making plans for building two-story structures. Philip McCorkle, owner and editor of the Siftings Herald, has ordered new equipment and hopes to have it installed this week.

Four Hurt, 42 Killed as Trains Collide in Germany

SAARBRUECKEN, Sarra, Germany Aug. 19.—(AP)—Four persons were killed and 42 injured in a train crash at the Lorraine station of Krefeldwald today. A freight train smashed into a passenger train, telescoping the latter's first coach.

Women Finish Third Lap of Air Contest

Gladys O'Donnell and Margery Doig Lead in Close Race

SEVEN CONTESTANTS

Takeoff From Phoenix Made Safely Today By All Fliers

PHOENIX, Ariz., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Continuing their trip and took race for the lead in the national Women's Air Derby, Gladys O'Donnell, Long Beach, Calif., and Margery Doig, Danbury, Conn., finished the third lap of the Long Beach to Chicago flight here Monday with less than five minutes elapsed time separating them.

While Mrs. O'Donnell completed the lap, which began in Calexico, Calif., first, she was followed 20 seconds later by Miss Doig, who gained 40 seconds during the flight. Mrs. O'Donnell's time from Calexico was one hour, 24 minutes. The distance is approximately 180 miles.

Half an hour after Mrs. O'Donnell arrived, Jean La Rene, Kansas City set her plane down. She was followed half a minute later by Mildred Morgan, Beverly Hills, Calif., who started a minute ahead of her.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Gladys O'Donnell sped away from the local airport here today, leading in the National Air Derby for women by 8 minutes and 15 seconds.

The first take off was made at 10 a. m. mountain standard time, and the next stop on the schedule is Tucson, Ariz.

The other five contestants, including Miss Ruth Bynon of Hollywood, Calif., who landed on the field only one and one-half hours before the takeoff. She missed her course yesterday and had to spend the night in a small Arizona town.

New Evidence May Clear Garage Man

Walnut Ridge Man Accused of Killing Brother May Be Freed

WALNUT RIDGE, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Roy W. Mullen, deputy prosecuting attorney, announced Monday that new evidence had been submitted, which, "if it checks with the physical facts," may result in the withdrawal of a murder charge now pending against George Hopps, Walnut Ridge garage owner in connection with the death of his half-brother, Hubert A. Pope, 26, of Memphis.

Hopps was arrested and placed under $2000 bond after the death of Pope in Marion Friday. Pope collapsed in his automobile, in which he was en route from Walnut Ridge to Memphis, and died in a doctor's office. Hopps was arrested largely because of statements credited to Pope that "George hit me, too hard."

The new evidence included a statement of a druggist at Truman that a man answering a description of Pope and traveling in a car bearing license numbers corresponding to those on his car, had bought a poison at his store Friday and a statement credited to Dr. R. L. McVey, the physician at Marion, that Pope died in convulsions, such as might have been caused, such as poisoning. Dr. McVey also was quoted as saying that an X-ray examination showed that Pope's skull was not fractured and that a wound on his head was "hardly more than a bad cut."

Fayetteville Boy Injured Fatally

Youth Was Struck By Hit and Run Driver in Oklahoma

FAYETTEVILLE, Aug. 19.—Coy Napier, aged 20, of Fayetteville, died in a hospital at Westville, Okla., early Monday night from injuries suffered last night. While he was changing a tire on his truck beside the road a passing auto struck him, dragging him 30 feet and driving off without stopping.

Officers are searching for the auto. Young Napier was taken to the Westville hospital but doctors could do little for him. One leg was fractured, his back was cut badly and he was hurt internally.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Napier here. His father is janitor at Carnall hall, woman's dormitory of the University of Arkansas. Several brothers and sisters also survive.

In War Against Reds In China

Meet at Stuttgart to Plan Rice Market

Several Speakers of Importance Speak at Meet Today

STUTTGART, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Farmers and bankers from twelve rice growing counties of Arkansas assembled here today for a meeting sponsored by the University of Arkansas Extension Department, to determine what assistance would be needed to market the 1930 rice crop.

Carl Williams, member of the Federal Farm Board, is scheduled to address the audience assembled this afternoon.

At the morning session addresses were heard from Dr. McKenzie Stevens, also of the Federal Farm Board staff, and Dr. Brannon, professor of Agricultural Economics of the University of Arkansas.

Basis of Drouth Relief Explained

Federal Farm Board Describes Emergency Measures For Feed Supply

The basis on which the federal government is authorized to extend credit to farmers in the drouth area, in conjunction with the state government, is given in the following mail dispatch received by The Star from the Federal Farm Board at Washington, D. C.

The Federal Farm Board is deeply concerned by the reports of serious drouth in a number of agricultural regions.

The United States Department of Agriculture and its allied agencies are now surveying the dry sections to determine the degree of damage to crops and its prospective effect on farmers and their livestock. In the meantime, the Federal Farm Board is studying its own power for financial aid.

Under the Agricultural Marketing Act the Federal Farm Board cannot give anything to anybody, but it has considerable discretion in the matter of loans on loans. There is also the Grain Stabilization corporation through which the Board may work.

If existing feed distribution agencies or other business men and farmers in any stricken community, county, district, or state will form under the laws of their own state a responsible corporation which will guarantee the payment of notes to be given by individual farmers, a plan probably can be quickly developed whereby the Grain Stabilization corporation can sell feed grains of any kind in car lots at market prices on easy payments of one or two years. The local organization would arrange for local distribution of the feed thus supplied and see to the collection of the farmers' notes when due. It would make no profit on its own services and would make proper local arrangements for the payment of freight.

The Federal Farm Board can in this way help every community that is willing to help itself. The Grain Stabilization corporation has plenty of grain and can buy more to replace that sold for feed, thus keeping its own supplies intact.

The plan is believed to be practical and workable. It would relieve suffering, dispose of a part of the grain surplus, and put no man nor community under the necessity of asking for charity. If local communities will do their part, no substantial farmer need lack for feed for his livestock and no stock need be sacrificed on present markets.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Von Lehr Black, publisher of the Baltimore Sun, was found to be missing from his yacht, the Sabalo, 12 miles from Scotland Light, off the New Jersey Coast early today.

MULBERRY, Ark., Aug. 19.—(P)—The body of Mrs. Arthur Hargrove, 38, was found today by a man in an abandoned well about 300 feet from her home. She is survived by her husband, three sons and three daughters. A coroners inquest will be held this afternoon.

Cotton Depressed Below 11 Cents

October 10.77 at New York—Blame Trade More Than New Rains

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Cotton crashed below 11 cents a pound Monday on heavy selling which followed reports of increasing receipts from the new crop, and additional rains in Oklahoma and Arkansas.

October contracts broke to 10.77 here and 10.78 at New Orleans.

At 10.77 for the new October contract here today, the market was lower than it has been since July contracts here sold at 10.45 in June, 1921. This comparison may have brought in some covering during the early afternoon but the demand was supplied so readily that in some instances the buyers seemed to be reselling in the late trading.

The reports of rains in Oklahoma and Arkansas may have been a contributing factor on the decline, but according to some of the local brokers, selling was based more largely upon an unfavorable view of the trade situation and apprehensions as to the effect of the increasing new crop movement, than upon anything in the immediate progress of the crop. Trading was active with considerable Southern selling as well as local and Wall Street selling in evidence, while the buying was attributed chiefly to the trade and covering of shorts.

Two Escaped Convicts Captured In Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Two Frenchmen who escaped from Devil's Island 10 months ago will begin their journey back to France tomorrow accompanied by two Brazilian police officers.

They are George Paillard, 44, also known at Fernand Albert, serving a life sentence for murder and robbery practiced on trains in France under cover of the darkness of tunnels, and Eugene Bandon, serving 10 years for the killing of his wife.

The two had made their way through Guiana and Northern Brazil, arriving here from Para July 26, on a coastwise steamer. They were arrested on the same day because of a lack of passports.

Governor Parnell Favors Audit of Highway Records

To Ask 1931 Legislature to Provide Thorough Investigation

ASKS CONSIDERATION

Nominees of the General Assembly Asked To Consider Matter

LITTLE ROCK, Aug. 19.—Governor Parnell will ask the 1931 General Assembly to provide for a thorough and impartial audit of the state Highway Department by competent accountants who are not connected with the state government, he announced Monday.

In a statement, issued, he said, to members of the legislature may begin considering the matter, the governor said he always has favored such an audit, but had refrained from making a statement because he did not want a question of such great importance to become involved in a political controversy.

The governor's statement follows: "I favor a thorough and impartial audit of the Highway Department by competent accountants who are not connected with the present state government, and shall urge the next General Assembly to make provision for such audit. Members of the Highway Commission desire a fair and complete investigation, by an outside agency."

"I have always favored such plan but have withheld this statement until this time because I did not want a matter of such great importance to the state and to the commission to be involved in a political controversy. No fair-minded citizen can truthfully charge that I am now playing politics on the question. It is a business matter of great importance and it is not a political proposition in any sense."

"My position is stated at this time so that the members of the next General Assembly may begin to give serious consideration to the problem before the legislature convenes. Some may think that the question can be easily settled but such is not the case. Several matters of supreme importance must be taken into account by the legislature. First of all the audit must be thorough and absolutely impartial. It must be made speedily and at the least possible expense to the state. Partisan politics should play no part in it. There should be no opportunity for criticism from any source or for political controversies when it has been completed.

"I ask the serious consideration and hearty co-operation of all persons, especially of the legislators, to the working out of a plan for an audit along these lines."

Report Evaneglist Loses Eyesight

Noted Woman Lecturer Fighting to Regain Lost Eyesight

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Ainee Simple McPherson was reported today by her secretary, Miss Emma Schaeffer, to have gone blind.

Miss Schaeffer said she had spent the night with Mrs. McPherson last night and that the evangelist is fighting to regain her sight. This statement was made to newspaper reporters.

Hotel Is Damaged In Fire at DeQueen

Two Stores Also Suffer Loss From Wetar and Smoke

DEQUEEN, Aug. 19.—Fire originating in the office of Cooper Brothers Dry Goods company Saturday night, practically destroyed the stock. It burned through the partition between the dry goods company and Chambers grocery and damaged the stock of the grocery store. Alyca hotel, immediately south of the grocery and dry goods stores in the same building, also sustained considerable damage. Excessive smoke made it difficult for firemen to extinguish the fire and considerable damage was done by water and smoke. Loss estimated at $25,000 was partially covered by insurance. The building was owned by H. H. Cooper and Charles Cooper.

Johnson County Judge's Race May Cause Contest

CLARKSVILLE, Aug. 19.—John Daubert, candidate for county judge in the Democratic primary against Judge E. C. Porter, has taken steps for a contest. The official vote showed that Porter was elected by a majority of 50.

The defeated candidate questions legality of some votes for Porter, and attorneys are checking the list of voters preparatory to filing of the contest.

Color in the News

THERE'S a nerve-tingling thrill in the news that has been filtering out of northern India recently, like that in one of Kipling's master romances of adventure.
For the wild Pathan hillmen of the Afghan frontier country, those historic free-booters who have plied their trade around Khyber Pass for centuries, are on the warpath again. The current unrest in India and the prospects of loot have encouraged them to attack the city of Peshawar, the last outpost in northwestern India. Several times they have been beaten off by British troops and several times they have returned. Recently, British airplanes have followed them into their native hills and bombed them from the skies.

THE semi-savage Pathans are undoubtedly the most ferocious and blood-thirsty fighters on the globe. They battle with a fanatical fury, bred of their Moslem belief that the warrior who dies by the sword is assured of a place in Allah's voluptuous paradise.
Their life and mode of living has been little changed since the legions of Alexander the Great poured through the Khyber into India 2500 years ago. Civilization has not touched these wild children of the hills except to provide them with guns instead of spears or swords, as more efficient means of committing murder.

IN THIS age, most of the news that comes across the telegraph wires is drab with the world's modern, even-tempered life and its progress in that direction. But occasionally from some far-off corner of the globe there comes a flashing bit of color, full of the thrills of romance and buried deep in the background of the world's remote and interesting past.
Such is the news from the British outposts in the Khyber hill country today. It is equally as colorful and as interesting as a Kipling novel and it gives us an added thrill when we realize that we are reading fact instead of fiction.

Woodruff And Its Three County Seats

WOODRUFF county has three county seats, Augusta, Cotton Plant and McCrory. The greatest airline distance between any of these three seats of county government is less than 25 miles. In the recent primary, state Senator Walter Ramey of McCrory, running for representative, had a clear majority over two opponents, on the issue of consolidating the three districts of Woodruff county and locating the county seat at Augusta. His position, to which the voters gave their endorsement, was that when the division was made, public convenience called for it, but that under the conditions of the present day the people are putting themselves to needless expense in maintaining three county seats. It seems all the more significant that the proposal for consolidation was put forward by a resident of one of the cities that would cease to be a county seat if the plan were adopted.
Consolidation in Woodruff would deprive Arkansas of her only three-district county. But there are 11 which maintain two county seats, and this movement in Woodruff might well lead some of these to consider whether, with their present highway and communication facilities, they might not profitably centralize their governments. And of course the question of getting rid of obsolete district divisions inside counties, leads on logically to the question of merging counties in cases where a single government might be adequate under modern conditions to serve an area and a population whose convenience once required two or more separate county governments.—Arkansas Gazette.

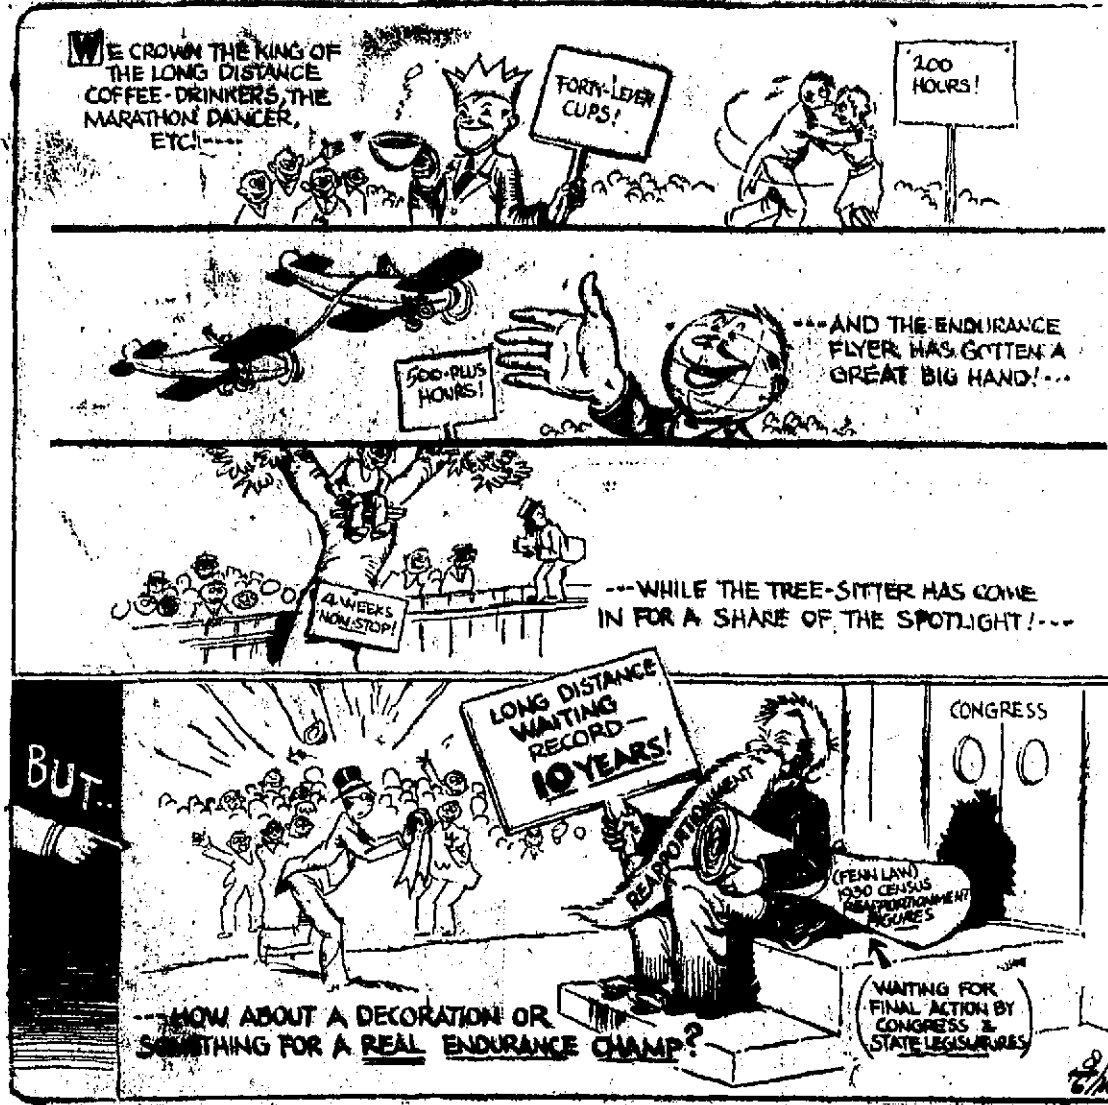

Paying For the War

A FEW years ago you heard quite a lot about canceling the war debts owed Uncle Sam, but they weren't canceled. Europe is still paying for the war, and will continue for many years.
It is interesting to note that the semiannual payments just made to the United States by foreign nations total $117,142,000. The greater part of this sum represents interest charges, $71,355,000. The rest, $45,787,000, was applied to reduction of the principal.
England paid $66,390,000, all of which was interest. France reduced her principal by $35,000,000. Italy paid $5,000,000 and Belgium $5,825,000. Smaller sums from Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Poland, Russia, Yugoslavia and the Baltic countries.
This money helps reduce our national debt. That, at least is consoling to every taxpayer.—El Dorado Evening Times.

Alladin's Lamp Eclipsed

NOT IN the least surprising is the report just made that in the first half of 1930 the use of electricity by household consumers increased 13.7 per cent over the first half of 1929 and 29.8 per cent over the corresponding period in 1928.
Electricity has added vastly to the conveniences and comforts of the modern home. It runs the washing machine, heats the iron, turns the fans, toasts the bread, perks the coffee, operates the radio, warms the bathroom, sweeps the carpets, lights the rooms and performs numerous other duties at the turn of a switch.
Even Alladin's magic lamp never accomplished half as much as this mysterious energy that enters our homes by two slim copper wires. That we are using more of it is an indication that we are living better.

Elected College Dean

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., Aug. 19.—(UP)—Rev. James Hybert Pollard has been elected dean of Grand Island college, and will take up his duties here with the opening of the term this fall. For the last four years, Pollard has been dean at Bacone college near Muskogee, Okla. It was at this school that he obtained his high school training, later going to William Jewell college in Missouri for this liberal arts degree.

54-Inch Rattler

CLINTON, Ind., Aug. 19.—(UP)—A 54-inch rattlesnake, on the tail of which were ten rattles, was displayed here by Pat Lowry and Hiddle Miller, of St. Bernice. The men said they killed the reptile while swimming.

Heat Fries Egg

LINTON, Ind., Aug. 19.—(UP)—The expression "It's hot enough to fry eggs without a fire," was tried by two Linton women during the recent hot weather, and, according to their report, it worked. Mrs. Vernon La Rue and Mrs. Mary Dodge said they broke an egg on the cement sidewalk and that it slowly coagulated and hardened to such an extent that it might have been used in a sandwich.

Pastor Honored

WINONA LAKE, Ind., Aug. 19.—(UP)—A medal giving recognition to Rev. G. S. Adamson of Winona Lake for several years' work in the Belgian Congo district of Africa, has been presented to him by King Albert of Belgium. Rev. Adamson built a boat which was the first used on the Congo river in that locality, and is credited with establishing transportation by water along that part of the river.

Enough's Enough

VALPARISO, Ind., Aug. 19.—(UP)—Six marriages to the same man are enough, Mrs. Clara Knoll has concluded, and she has stated positively that when she obtains a divorce from William Knoll on a petition now pending, she will not remarry him. The couple have been divorced six times in nine years, and each time remarried, whereupon Mrs. Knoll charged, he immediately forgot each time the text of his promises to reform.

Big Egg Eater

HAMMOND, Ind., Aug. 19.—(UP)—All the eggs laid by a flock of seven or eight dozen hens in a lifetime were required to meet the demand for James Dudick, who claims the egg eating championship of the world. For 40 years, Dudick said, he has eaten four eggs daily—two soft-boiled for breakfast, and two hard-boiled for lunch. His total egg consumption is estimated at 53,400.

Gives Away Horses

HASTINGS, Neb., Aug. 19.—(UP)—Upon hearing that he had struck oil, and had money—more than he knew what to do with—M. Day, owner of a string of race horses in Adams county, promptly proceeded to give away all the horses to bystanders at the Kansas race track where he was watching the racers circle, and passed out "cards" in the form of five and ten dollar bills, to his friends.

The fourth murderer in Nevada to be sentenced to death since adoption of the lethal gas method will be executed in October.

Driver Arrested as Result Of Automobile Accident

ARKADELPHIA, Aug. 19.—Billie Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Davis, was injured seriously late Monday when the car in which he was riding collided with the car of Mark Hopkins was not hurt seriously. Both was cut badly on the head but examination at Moore & Wallis sanitarium showed there was no fracture. He was removed to his home where he is recovering. The Davis car was driven by Hays Davis, a brother, and was also occupied by the parents. Hopkins was not hurt seriously. Both cars were demolished. The cars met head-on at the top of a hill. After the accident Hopkins, farmer who lives eight miles west of town, was arrested.

TURNIPS

Turnips as a stock feed and food supply for the family demand immediate attention and planting. Many creek bottoms have enough moisture to grow a supply immediately and there are many other plots of land suited for immediate planting.

Turnips is a crop that can be made wider use of and can in this emergency supply demands to good advantage. Purple Top Milan, White Glove, and White Egg are suitable varieties. Best quality and size is secured by planting in rows, however, they may be broadcast.

Turnips will supply food for both family and livestock. The tops may be used and shipped as greens in the event there is a surplus produced according to County Agent.

This Bank offers a prize of $5.00 to the farmer who grows and delivers to us by December 1, 1930, the largest turnip.

Care of Your Birds Through Summer

Plenty of Shade Should Be Provided Through Hot Months

During the hot dry weather young pullets must have proper care if they are going to develop properly. Young stock hatched early in the season grows off and develops much faster than the chicks that are taken off after hot weather has set in, states C. W. Knox, University of Arkansas College of Agriculture, Extension Service.

To get young stock to develop properly during hot weather, it is necessary that they have plenty of shade. An orchard makes an ideal range for young stock. If an orchard is not available, shade may be had by constructing a brush arbor about 4 or 5 feet above the ground. Four posts should be set about 10 feet apart, run a strip across to each post on the top, then several strips across the top of these strips. Cover the frame work made by these strips with heavy enough brush to make a dense shade. This shade will keep the birds much cooler than if they are exposed to the direct rays of the sun.

The mash hoppers can be constructed so they will keep the feed dry in case of rain and should be put in the shade. The birds will naturally stay near this shade and if a good growing mash is handy they will consume more of it. This mash will develop them into birds with well developed bone and muscle—the kind of birds that make good egg producers.

A good growing mash is composed of 60 pounds of yellow corn meal; 20 pounds wheat shorts; 15 pounds wheat bran; 40 pounds bone meal; and one pound of salt; and milk to drink should be kept before them at all times. The scratch feed should be composed of two parts of corn to one part of wheat by weight.

During extremely hot weather it is very important that young stock have plenty of fresh clean water. The water vessel should be large enough so that there is no danger of the vessel going dry but giving a constant supply of water.

If the young stock is housed in the brooder house, the glass substitute windows should be removed and stored where they will be protected from the weather until they are needed again. This will give better ventilation in the house for the young stock. The windows on the rear of the house should be removed to provide ventilation. It is almost impossible to get too much ventilation in the house used for the growing stock during the summer.

Young stock that was hatched from well bred stock and that is properly grown out ought to return a good profit this fall and winter. But, young stock that is poorly cared for during the growing season is going to be a disappointment to their owner this fall and winter.

Rheumatism Is Soon Ended By Famed Konjola

Kidney Trouble and Nervousness Also Yield To This New and Different Medicine.

MR. JOHN C. BAYLY

Results are what count, and Konjola, all of its 32 ingredients working together, can be counted on for results. Take, for example, the experience of Mr. John C. Bayly, 5725 Clemons street, St. Louis, who says:
"I was in a terribly run down condition for two years, with rheumatism in my legs; back pains and weak kidneys. I was restless at night and lost much weight. I knew so many who were helped by Konjola that I decided to put this new medicine to the test. I have taken five bottles, and my rheumatism is gone; my kidneys are much stronger, appetite is excellent, I am taking on weight and rest well at night. My nerves are so improved that I hardly know myself."
So it goes: triumph after triumph when Konjola is given a chance to show why seven million bottles of this medicine were used in two years.
Konjola is sold in Hope, Ark., at Brian's Drug Store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

FURNITURE MADE IT A HOME

WHEN man first tired of eating on the floor and rough-hewed from the log his primitive stools and tables, the art of graceful living began. Man had discovered the utility of furniture. He was later to discover its beauty. He had made his habitation a home.

In all places, in all times since, furniture has played an important part in man's life. Even today, it is the chief means by which he captures charm, comfort and convenience for his place of living.

In your home, your equipment is of paramount importance. If it is properly chosen, well arranged, it becomes a part of your environment . . . it expresses your individuality . . . it reflects your taste . . . it enables you and your family to learn and enjoy the art of graceful living.

Now is the ideal time to add new furniture to your home. Prices are at their lowest level since 1914. They will not stay down—indications are that factory costs will soon start upward. So make your refurnishing plans at once. Consult the advertisements of furniture dealers in our columns, let them help you gain new home charm.

About Mr. Owen Bush

THERE were eight changes in management in the big leagues last year. Most of the new managers are in the second division as these lines are being written. Dan Rowley is around seventh, fighting back and forth with the Braves for sixth place. The Braves are the only team piloted by one of the new managers, too. Lucky Bill McKechnie. Just above the Reds and Braves are two more teams with new managers battling for fourth position, the Pirates with Jewel and the Cards with Gabby Street.

Over in the other league Hob Shawkey has brought very good results with the Yankees. The other teams in the first division underwent no change in management for this year. But in the second division of the American League is the story, and it hinges on Mrs. Bush's son, Owen, manager of the Chicago White Sox. Boston, with Heinie Wagner, clings to its time-honored cellar tradition. St. Louis, with good old Bill Killefer at the helm, has run afoul of the fans, but let it be said for Donie Bush that he has nine men in there fighting—not among them, as was the wont of the Sox of yore—but battling the enemy line every day.

Not So Cuckoo!

WHEN Bush took the White Sox job he was adjudged by smart baseball men as being either slightly irrational or a Hercules. As it turns out, Donie seems not only to have all his original marbles but to be somewhat after the pattern of old Herk himself. He has been cleansing the Augean White Sox stables with fine discrimination. He has been kindly but firm.

Red Faber kicked his heels over the dashboard because the youthful Sox behind him mistook the pastime in which they were engaged for soccer.

"I'm not going to pitch," said Faber, "with those guys out there messing up the premises."

"And the answer was..."

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

THE Yankees' pet jinx is the Washington ball team. Out of the first 15 games between the two clubs, New York won three. Babe Ruth is just as elated Hub Priddy isn't pitching in the American League this year as Hub was the Babe's extra special hoodoo.

The Dodgers happen to be the Giants' nemesis. The Giants are a pain in the neck to the Cubs and the Cubs are the favorite jinx of the Dodgers.

For years and years Matty was Joe Minker's jinx. Then suddenly the tables turned and Joe became a very hard person for Big Six to get out.

The Cleveland Indians are a jinx to George Pipgras. Remember the year the Yankees won 21 out of 22 games from the Browns? Art Nehf beat the Pirates 13 in a row.

right, Urban, you're not."

So Faber was sent home to think it over.

Keeps No Secrets

ON a recent trip, Willie Kamm was left at home. When the scribes besought Mr. Bush for the reason, he made no secret of it. "I left him behind," said the Indianapolis instructor, "because he was not playing baseball."

Bush has been experimenting shifting players from job to job. The lady made errors, but under Bush they have learned to keep fighting. He had an ill-assorted (franklin of baseball suits to begin with. He has put players into most of them, one by one, and while the process has been slow, Bush has made it interesting.

It is a young team, and Bush has inspired it with the zeal that a winning ball team has to have. Just keep an eye on that team from day to day.

Nation's Drouth Costs Farmers Billion

NEA Telegraphic Survey Shows Great Damage in Many Rinless States, Wheat Appears to Have Escaped, as Dry Spell Arrived After Crop Matured.

(Copyright, 1930, NEA Service, Inc.)

Farmers in the area affected by the nation's record-breaking drought, extending eastward from the Rocky mountains, will incur a financial loss totaling above the billion dollar mark.

Crops, earlier in the year estimated at above average yield, will be reduced in some areas to as low as 50 per cent of last year's production.

Livestock has lost weight and the milk supply has dwindled, due to the drying up of pastures.

Winter silage is being consumed, endangering the feed supply for the coming winter and spring.

And each day of dry weather has been piling up losses of additional millions of dollars, according to a survey just made by NEA Service for The Star.

The survey covers the mid-western states, the north Atlantic states, below New England, and the southern states bordering the Ohio and Mississippi valleys.

Every query wired to the director of agriculture of each of these states brought forth a disheartening reply.

Each official reported losses of from one-fourth to one-half in most of the crops that, at the beginning of this year, had been expected to yield an abundant supply.

Price increases as the result of shorter crops, already exhibited on various produce exchanges, are expected to do much to reduce the losses suffered by the farmers, but of course the increases will be insufficient to completely offset them. Another encouraging factor is that wheat appears to have escaped the drought arriving too late to cause much damage to this major crop.

The most serious losses appear along the Ohio and Mississippi valleys, from western Pennsylvania down to northern Mississippi and Louisiana.

Mississippi's Losses $200,000,000

In Ohio, one of the worst hit states, C. J. Williams, director of the state agricultural experiment station, estimates a total loss of about $200,000,000, mostly in the southern part. Corn production, he says, will range from a fourth of normal in this section to half of normal farther north. Hay production will be in the same proportion. oats will average a little higher.

Wheat, as in most of the other states, will be affected only slightly, it at all, because the drought struck as it approached maturity and so rather improved the quality.

C. J. Jordan, secretary of agriculture in Pennsylvania reports a conservative loss to crops and livestock in that state of at least $50,000,000 with a daily increase of at least a million during the dry weather.

West Virginia, Virginia, Kentucky are still trying to collect figures from the various districts on their losses.

While Tennessee, through W. F. Pitts, of the agricultural commission, gives a temporary estimated loss of $30,000,000.

Arkansas Hard Hit

In Arkansas, the losses due to drought will probably reach $100,000,000, says Earl Page, commissioner of agriculture. Page lists his states' losses as follows:

Corn, 20,000,000 bushels, value $20,000,000; sorghum, 2,000,000 gallons, value $2,000,000; rice, 3,000,000 bushels, value $3,000,000; potatoes, 2,000,000 bushels, value $2,000,000; sweet potatoes, 2,000,000 bushels, value $3,000,000; cotton, 20,000 bales, value $20,000,000; cottonseed, value $5,000,000; soy beans, $1,000,000; cow peas, $1,000,000; hay, $6,000,000; fruit and truck crops, $1,000,000.

says, will exceed $20,000,000, due to the lack of feed, shrinkage in values and sacrifice sales. Meat animals, out ready for the market, are being sacrificed for lack of feed at prices less than half of their actual value.

A Million Dollars a Day

The situation in Missouri is no better, according to E. A. Logan, of the state's department of agriculture. Logan estimated the total loss to crops and livestock at $125,000,000 with each additional day of drought adding a million dollars more.

"Mississippi is facing the prospect of the shortest feed crop in history," reports J. C. Holton, of the state agriculture commission. "Corn is already reduced by 15,000,000 bushels, valued at $15,000,000; hay, 300,000 tons, value at $1,500,000; sweet potatoes, 2,000,000 bushels, valued at $3,000,000; cow peas, soy beans and peanuts, 500,000 bushels, valued at $1,000,000, and all other crops in proportion."

"Cotton has been reduced 500,000 bales, valued at $10,000,000, and the tomato movement was 1000 cars less than last year's, producing a loss of $500,000."

Extends to Louisiana

North and Central Louisiana has been hard hit by the drought, reports Harry D. Wilson, commissioner of agriculture. In that state the cotton crop has been reduced from 30 to 50 per cent, corn and feed crops from 50 per cent to almost an entire failure, and many of the pasture lands have been burned up.

In Alabama, Seth P. Storrs, commissioner of agriculture, reports the cotton crop 41,000 bales below last year's production of 1,335,000 bales. Corn and forage crops also have been greatly reduced, he adds, and much damage has been done to truck and garden crops.

Further north, the losses become less serious, although Iowa reports a corn crop from 20 to 25 per cent of the average yield. In southwestern Iowa, the corn yield is hardly half the average, M. G. Thornburg, secretary of agriculture, reports. In the north and northeastern sections, however, a yield above normal is indicated.

In Nebraska, H. J. McLaughlin, secretary of agriculture, reports a wheat and oats crop above the average for the last five years, while barley and rye, due to their increased acreage, will show a production twice that of the five-year average. The only damage by drought, he reports, has occurred in the eastern half of the state, where 68 per cent of the corn has been damaged. As a result, the total damage for the entire state is estimated at one-half last year's yield of 237,744,000 bushels.

ter than last year. Hay production, however, will be one-fourth less while corn, potatoes and other vegetables have been badly in need of rain.

Kansas and Oklahoma also report serious losses. Since July 1, Kansas has been a daily loss of about 1,500,000 bushels of corn. The yield for this year will probably be less than 70,000,000 bushels as against 130,000,000 bushels last year.

Grain sorghums will be reduced by one-half in Kansas, say agricultural officials, although the dry spell came too late to affect the wheat crop. Broom corn and forage crops are expected to remain normal.

In Oklahoma, however, the total crop damage is believed to be from one-fourth to one-third the average yield. This is expected to cost Oklahoma farmers more than $70,000,000.

Dairymen Suffer

In the north Atlantic states, below New England, drought losses are reported mainly in pastures and consequently reduction of dairy production. New York, for example, reports a considerable drying up of pasture lands, reduced milk production and resultant increase of dairy costs. Tender vegetables and late fruits are now suffering.

In Maryland, milk production has been cut 30 per cent by the drought, reports T. B. Symons, director of the extension service. In addition the total loss to field crops, market garden crops, tobacco and fruits is estimated at 50 to 60 per cent of last year's production. Feed for the winter is scarce, the young grass has been killed, and the outlook for hay and pasture next year is discouraging, Symons adds.

Grain sorghums will be reduced by one-half in Kansas, say agricultural officials, although the dry spell came too late to affect the wheat crop. Broom corn and forage crops are expected to remain normal.

The Hollywood Story

COPYRIGHT 1930 by NEA SERVICE Inc. by ERNEST LYNN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

DAN RORIMER, temperamental young man of Hollywood, can't get along with the studio manager at Continental Pictures and turns to his contract as scenario writer and asks to be freed. But he isn't. Dan has become keenly interested in ANN, a young girl from Tulsa, Okla., who is working as an extra. She has stage experience, and she knows enough to carry a screen test at Grand United studios.

Dan lives with PAUL COLLIER, who writes a daily movie column for a string of newspapers. Anne lives with MARY MORRISON and EVA HUBBARD, two extra girls. Dan is rather better.

PAUL COLLIER, famous Hollywood director, has shown some interest in Anne. Winter, Dan does not care much for Rorimer, but he is an admirer, however, of MARTIN COLLINS, formerly of Continental, now with Amalgamated. Collins invites him to a house-warming at his home, and he brings Anne along.

There Dan meets a charming young actress named MARY MAURY. Anne meets and is annoyed by FRANK MAURY, a concealed champion of the screen. Maury makes himself obnoxious to Mary and Anne, and then tells Dan he is to receive them from his unbecoming attention. Maury is curious about Anne. She seems interested in knowing whether she is a particular kind of thing. Now go on with the story.

CHAPTER XIX

RORIMER said, "Why, I hope so," and he wondered then if Anne possibly regarded him as something more than a friend and a companion to play around with. Anne was hard to figure that way; you never knew just where you stood. True, she seemed to enjoy herself when ever he was with her, but that might mean much and it might mean nothing. Anne had never given him reason to think that it had any especial significance. He grinned inwardly, remembering the night that he had kissed her and she had told him calmly that she hoped he would not do it again. That was Anne for you; always calm, always composed; knowing just what she was doing and where she was going.

He remembered now that he had last seen her in the patio, talking with a little gray-haired man. He hoped she was still there, felt a little uneasy, because Frank Maury had passed that way, and Maury was in a mood to be unpleasant. He heard Martin Collins' voice calling from the house, and Martin Farrell, beside him, clutched his arm. "Martin says everyone's going swimming," she said. "Are you?"

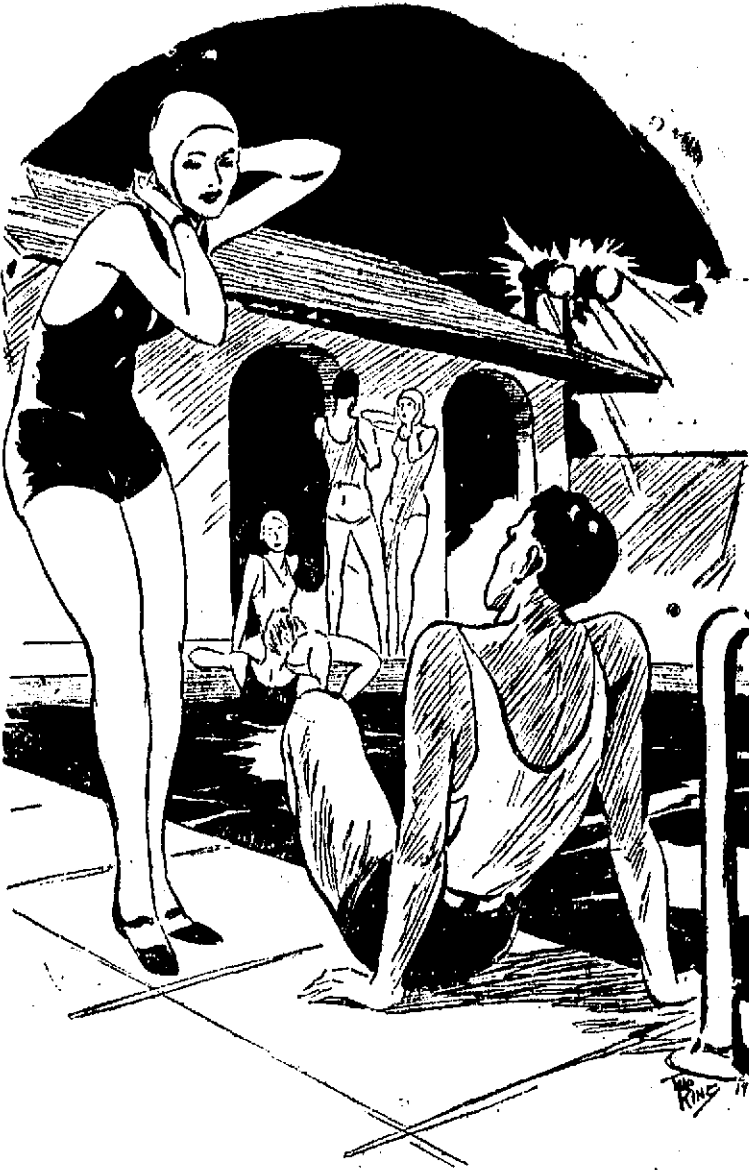

Mary's head barely reached above his shoulder. He looked down at her and smiled and nodded emphatically. "Absolutely. How about you?" and Mary nodded, too.

Rorimer recollected something. "Did you find that green bathing suit, by the way?" he asked. "Because if you didn't, somebody's going to have to explain to Frank Maury."

Mary said that Maury probably wouldn't remember a word that had been said. "Anyway, I found it," she answered him.

She left him then, and went off to change her clothes, and Dan told her that he would meet her in the pool, and he started toward the house in search of Anne. But he heard loud voices, and presently a crowd emerged from the house, led by Collins, who had a girl on either arm. And one of them, Rorimer saw, was Anne, so he made for the men's dressing room and was among the first to get into a bathing suit.

He heard someone say in the dressing room that Maury was "sleeping it off," and another voice said, "Yes, Frank said he had been insulted and he wasn't coming in. Do you think we ought to drag him out and throw him in?" But Martin Collins quietly said it would be better if they let Maury alone.

When Anne Winter emerged from the little building, Rorimer, dripping with water, was sitting on the edge of the pool, watching for her with eager eyes. Gorgeous looking, Anne was, in a black bathing suit and white rubber helmet. He waved to her and she came over and stood beside him and asked him how the water was.

"Fine," he said. "Going in the deep end?"

Anne smiled and nodded, and he got up and took her by the hand and led her to the springing board. "You first, Anne, and I'll race you to the other end. Okay?"

It was, Anne replied gaily, and he watched her walk confidently to the end of the board, poised for a moment and then, a slim and lovely figure, cleave the air with bewitching grace and disappear beneath the water with a little splash. He followed and, swimming under water, took her hand and came up laughing happily.

"That was a great dive, Anne. You're good." And he added: "I like you in black, too."

Anne said, "Your taste is too fickle."

"Meaning just what?" he urged, swimming beside her. Something in the earnestness of her speech led him to think that she might possibly be thinking of Martin Farrell.

But Anne refused to elaborate, even after he had repeated his question, and he let her beat him to the end of the pool, where they fogged her on; nothing else seemed to matter.

He watched her from the corner of his eye, saw her yawn. Anne glanced quickly his way, caught his look, and smiled. "Sleepy," she said, and Dan nodded. "Just a couple of minutes now."

A few minutes later they were at her door. The sky was much lighter now, and Anne observed that it was nothing less than a scandal to be returning from a party at such an hour.

"But I had a wonderful time, Dan. It was glorious."

"You'll be the first one home. Most of the others will swim until breakfast and go home full of ham and eggs. I hated to leave the pool myself, didn't you?"

"Yes. . . . Good night, Dan."

PAUL COLLIER'S movements aroused Dan some hours later. Collier was cooking breakfast—Sunday morning breakfast being the one meal they religiously ate at home—and Collier was making a great fuss with frying pans.

"What's the big idea?" Rorimer demanded from his bed, and Paul appeared in the doorway, a dressing gown thrown over his pajamas. "It's 11 o'clock, my boy. Going to sleep all day? What time did you get in?"

"None of your business," Dan told him. "I'll have my orange juice in bed."

"Oh, yeah?" Collier came into the room and grabbed Rorimer by the foot and began to haul him out of bed. "Come on now, get out of there."

"Have a heart!" Dan cried, but Collier was heartless.

"The toast is burning; I smell it," he said, depositing Dan on the floor. And he ran back to the kitchen, wanting to know if Rorimer wanted his eggs sunny side up.

"Scrambled," said Dan, flinging out of his pajamas and dashing under the shower.

Collier made some sarcastic comment that Dan could not hear for the noise of the shower, and when he finally emerged from the bathroom, looking presentable once more and with his appetite sharpened by the tempting aroma of frying bacon and eggs, Paul demanded some gossip.

"How was the party, anyway? Anybody get crooked?"

Dan wolfed his orange juice and chuckled. "In a mild way," he said. "Your friend Frank Maury was there, by the way. He had a fine edge. I had a little run-in with him."

And he recounted it to Collier. "Where's Maury from?" he asked, and Paul answered that Maury had been an extra. "He hung around for several years before he got a break, and when he did it went straight to his head. . . . That's pretty good, taking two girls away from Maury in one evening. He'll never get over it. He thinks he's God's own little gift to women. I understand he saves his fan mail and sits in front of a mirror and reads it over."

Collier served the bacon and eggs and sat down. "I wish you'd punched him in the nose. I know a lot of people who would have enjoyed it."

And he added: "We're having open house this afternoon, by the way, just in case you forget. I run into Louise Watkins last night, just for a minute. She said she wanted to talk to you about something. She's coming over."

Textile Workers Chase Reds Out of Town Today

BESSEMER, CITY, N. C., Aug. 8.—(AP)—Bessemer City's striking textile workers today chased out of this village three men whom they characterized as "Reds."

Leaders of the 500 employees who walked out at the American mills two plants here this morning declared "we are running this ourselves. We don't want any Reds or unions in here."

Other than this incident the day passed off quietly.

Assault Charges Filed Against Winslow Man

FAYETTEVILLE, Aug. 19.—Charges of assault with intent to kill have been filed in a justice court here against Alfred Vanderville, aged about 45, of near Winslow, on the complaint of Everett Meadows, 29. The charges are the result of an alleged gun battle late Saturday on the streets of Winslow, 35 miles south of here.

Meadows was shot twice, through the right arm and through the right leg. He was brought to the city hospital here, but returned to his home. He said he was beaten over the head with a gun. Meadows alleged that Vanderville attacked him after a dispute over a drinking fountain near a Winslow cafe. He said the older man ordered him to stop drinking.

Sheriff Investigates Alleged School burning

MENA, Aug. 19.—Sheriff J. E. Joplin was called to investigate the act of alleged fire bugs in burning the school house in Ozark district, near Grannis, last night. It is believed the building was destroyed because of opposition to holding school in the old structure.

North Carolina farmers were urged to plant emergency hay crops in sections where cash and feed crops were damaged by hail or dry weather.

Add to this the irrepressible buffoonery of Oakie and his fellow-play-ers, the delectable romancing of Miss MacDonald and Hall, the catchy tunes and the frisky dance routines. Then you have a fair estimate of the grand show that is "Let's Go Native."

JEANETTE MACDONALD in "Let's Go Native," A Paramount Picture

Action Galore in "Let's Go Native," at Saenger

A farce comedy with music must have action—and that's just what "Let's Go Native" hasn't got nothing else but, to paraphrase Octavus Roy Cohen.

"Let's Go Native" starts out with the very well-known action of a gang of movers and haulers taking the furniture out of the luxurious apartment of Jeanette MacDonald, modiste, because she has failed to pay her rent. Eugene Pallette is the boss of the gang. As you would expect, there is action aplenty when they start stumbling over rugs and spilling chairs downstairs.

Then follows the action involving Jack Oakie when he drives his taxi-cab smash-bang into the front window of the police station—and the action involving Pallette when he drives Miss MacDonald's spiffy roadster across the top of a fire-plug, causing much hilarious wreckage.

There's action galore aboard the vessel that is transporting them all to South America—in the hold where Oakie, William Austin and James Hall are stokers. In the dining saloon where they later appear as waiters. On the deck when they all indulge in the great hot-tossing orgy. In the companionways and cabins when the ship is wrecked. In the salty wastes of the Atlantic when they cruise about in life-rafts. On the tropical isle where they find Skeets Gallagher and his sun-tanned seraglio of stranded chorines from Brooklyn. And so on and so on. Action, action, action.

Mother Brags on Him

"Why shouldn't I brag on Otto? If you had seen him a while back you couldn't believe he's the same boy," says Mrs. McGuire Thigpen, San Antonio mother, whose home is at 1816 S. Presa St. "If he tried to play he'd get all out of breath right away. He rolled and tumbled instead of sleeping. We had to drag him out of bed in the mornings so he would be sure to get to school. He's such a healthy specimen now because we finally reached his trouble by giving him Herbine. He eats big meals now, sleeps sound and even works after school from 5.30 to 11.30."

A teaspoonful of Herbine, taken as directed on the bottle, is usually all a sluggish, irritable child needs to help his stomach and bowels so he can eat and grow strong. Try it.

Navigation Best On Ouachita River

6.5-Foot Channel to Camden Even When Mississippi Fails

CAMDEN, Aug. 19.—The Ouachita river at present has the greatest depth for navigation purposes of any river in the Mississippi river system, according to a statement Sunday by Capt. L. V. Cooley, master of the Steamer Ouachita which is here on its regular semi-monthly trip from New Orleans.

Capt. Cooley further stated that a barge could be loaded at the docks at New Orleans for Camden with a cargo that would draw 6 feet of water and could easily make the trip all the way, though a boat drawing the same amount of water could not go to St. Louis or up the Ohio river.

A channel of 6.5 feet of water is maintained in the Ouachita, Black and Red rivers, according to Capt. Cooley and if it were not for the low stage of the Mississippi a boat drawing 6.5 feet of water could make the trip to Camden.

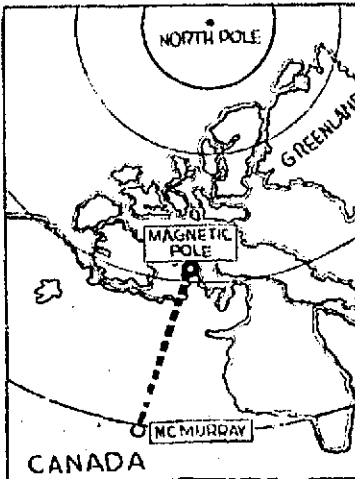

Much praise was given Major Lee and his corps of engineers at Vicksburg for the way in which the channels in the Black, Red and Ouachita rivers are maintained. At present two dredge boats are at work in the Red river clearing the channel to maintain the 6.5 foot channels during low water.

Capt. Cooley stated that there is less trouble in navigation in the Ouachita river on account of low water than in any other river in the Mississippi system.

The boat was delayed because of low water in the Red river but the two dredges are at work clearing the channel and Capt. Cooley stated that on the return trip up the river would be clear and there would be no difficulty.

The present stage of the river 3.9 feet is probably the lowest that the Ouachita has ever had when the boat came to Camden.

He'll Fly Over Magnetic Pole

Pilot W. E. Gilbert, above, faces one of the most difficult flights in aviation history—a three weeks' expedition from the McMurray, Alberta, seaplane base, to the North Magnetic Pole and return with Major L. T. Burwash, famous northern explorer employed by the Canadian government, for whom the trip is being made. They will fly 5000 miles over the barren region shown in the accompanying map.

They Must Know Better Than Run

OSHKOSH, Wis., Aug. 19.—(UP)—Sheriff Arthur Nelson, whose feats of marksmanship include shooting cigarettes bit by bit from the mouth of a person 55 feet away, regrets that in 14 years as an officer, no fugitive ever has failed to stop at his command to halt.

"Sometimes I almost wish they would keep going," he admitted. "I'd try pants hobbling them by shooting the buttons off their suspenders."

BERLIN, Germany, (AP)—American fish meal is highly regarded as a livestock feed in Germany, particularly for hogs and poultry.

Secretary Hyde To Head Drouth Work

Other Members Named By President Hoover to Aid In Work

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Secretary Hyde has been appointed by President Hoover as president of the National Drouth Committee. He will aid the farmers in getting the benefit of lower freight rates for grain in various sections of the country.

Mr. Hyde will check the reports of the county agents from all drouth sections as they come into Washington, in order to know where to direct efforts in aiding the stricken farmers.

Movement of feed into the affected areas for the livestock is one of the things that needs immediate attention, said Mr. Hyde.

Other members of the committee are:

Chairman Leugge, of the Federal Farm Board.

Paul Boster, Federal Farm Loan Company.

Roy A. Young, Federal Reserve Board.

Ogden Mills, Under Secretary of the Treasury.

Henry M. Robinson, President of the National Bank of Los Angeles, California.

Breakfast Enjoyed By B. & P. W. Club

Several Guests Present at Outing of Members This Morning

In keeping with its recreational program, the Hope Business and Professional Women's Club motored to Bridewell's lake this morning and enjoyed a breakfast in the open, with Miss Hazel Arnold, hostess. Despite the fact that so many of the members are on vacation, a good attendance was noted, with Miss Jenny Betts, home demonstration agent of Dallas county, and a member of the Fordyce club, Miss Elizabeth Bridewell, Miss Ida Mae Cannon and Miss Lovena Ruggles, as guests.

Following the breakfast, games were enjoyed under the direction of Miss Betts and Miss Jean Laseter. Miss Betts was presented with a dainty guest prize.

Business was dispensed with and the party motored back to town shortly before 8 o'clock, ready for the day's duties.

The meeting on September 2nd will be in charge of Mrs. Ruth Fleming, at which time the following program will be given:

River Steamers Will Resume

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 19.—(UP)—The whistle of a passenger steamer on the upper Mississippi river will be heard for the first time in years August 30.

The "Alabama" will make its first voyage northward on that date under the direction of Captain Milton Harry, veteran river man. Passenger service on the upper river continued intermittently up to the time of the World war and has been suspended since then.

The "Alabama" formerly in Ohio river service, was scheduled to make its first trip north from St. Louis early this month, but low water forced postponement of the maiden voyage.

Missouri Boy 13 Pleads Guilty to Burning Building

BLOOMFIELD, Aug. 19.—James Rough, aged 13, who was convicted in Circuit Court at the last term of killing his brother, Elmer, last December 11, Monday pleaded guilty to burglary of a school house and was sentenced to two years in the state reformatory.

Judge W. H. C. Walker, in consideration of the boy's age, paroled him as to the murder charge. The boy is believed to be the youngest to face trial in any court in Missouri for murder.

The brother died in a Popular Bluff hospital 10 hours after being shot. Various explanations were offered by James after the shooting. He is the son of J. W. Rough, farmer.

Turnips As a Food For the Family and Stock

Turnips as a stock feed and food supply for the family demand immediate attention and planting. Many creek bottoms have enough moisture to grow a supply immediately and there are many other plots of land suited for immediate planting states Grover C. Kincaid, assistant county agent.

Turnips are a crop that can be made wide use of and can in this emergency supply demands to good advantage. Purple Top, Milan, White Globe and White Egg are suitable varieties. The seed is usually broadcast, or can be sown in rows. If planted in rows, two pounds of seed should be used and the plants afterward thinned to stand two to six inches apart. If sown broadcast, three to six pounds of seed will be necessary per acre. Turnips will supply food for both livestock and the family. The tops in addition can be used and shipped as greens. Plan to plant your supply at once.

Card of Thanks

I wish to express my sincere thanks to the people of Hempstead county for their loyal support given me in the recent primary election; which won for me the Democratic nomination for county and probate judge.

I shall endeavor at all times to serve you faithfully and honorably.

Sincerely,
LUTHER HIGGASON.

Personal Mention

Dr. F. D. Henry, dentist with offices in the First National Bank building, has returned home from a recent visit with relatives in Louisiana.

Family night is to be observed tonight at the Hope Miniature Golf Course. Two members of a family may play for 25c, according to Mrs. S. H. Battle, owner of the course. Thursday night there is to be a Flag tournament, with a prize of $1.00 for the low score.

Texas Youth Is Killed By Hit and Run Driver

ABILENE, Texas, Aug. 18.—Paul Alton Tolbert, 17, was killed instantly near Merkel Saturday night by a hit and run driver. He was standing beside the car of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Tolbert of Sweetwater. The family had left Sweetwater to look for work.

The United States exported 13,091,861 pairs of rubber footwear last year.

TEXARKANA, Aug. 11.—Ernest G. Wells, Texas side prohibition enforcement officer, was held for the Bowie county grand jury on a bond of $500 on a murder charge, following a hearing in Justice court Wednesday. The charge grew out of the killing of Herbert Richardson, negro, at a house on West Sixth street, August 6.

It was alleged that prohibition spies had bought liquor at the house earlier in the day. Wells and several officers raided the house and they said that Richardson was trying to shoot Wells but his weapon "jammed" and Wells fired two shots, one of which passed through the negro's neck.

Fair To Feature School Exhibits

Youngsters Are Preparing For School Division of Annual Show Here

Exhibits of school work, outstanding for their excellence will be a big feature of the coming Southwest Arkansas Fair, September 22 to 27.

Boys and girls throughout this territory have been working hard since last year's fair to prepare the big assortment of school exhibits which will be shown during fair week.

In workmanship, and general ability, these exhibits will compare favorably with those of the fathers and mothers, and uncles and aunts, entered in all the other educational departments of the fair. They will be a revelation to all who see them.

Boys' and girls' club work is also being emphasized by the coming fair. The quality of club work in this section is of a high order, as displays and demonstrations at the fair will prove.

Among the club projects recognized by the fair in its premium list are field crops, hogs for breeding purposes, hogs for market, poultry, canning, clothing and room improvement.

Many boys and girls who have exhibited at former fairs will compete in the open classes this year, an attest their skill in competition with the grown folks. This will particularly apply to the livestock and agricultural departments.

A big program of entertainment stunts of special interest to children have been engaged by the fair.

If they take up modernism, the heirs of Henry M. Streng of Tiffin, Ohio, will lose their inheritance.

Ford Plane Inaugurates Air Mail to Canaries

OVERSEA air mail service between Madrid, the capital of Spain, and the Canary Islands, Spanish possessions in the South Atlantic, has just been successfully inaugurated with a Ford tri-motor transport land plane, according to reports received by the Ford Motor Company.

The advent of the new service was hailed by Spanish newspapers as an outstanding event in Spanish aviation, reducing as it does the travel time between the Spanish peninsula and the Canary Islands by many hours and closely linking the island possessions to the kingdom.

Passes Over Sahara

The route of the Ford transport on its flight to and from the islands carried the plane over the brooding Spanish Sahara, with a long jump over water to Las Palmas and Santa Cruz de Tenerife. The outward flight, with stops for fuel at Casablanca and Cabo Juby, required 14 hours.

On its return flight, the party of officials who inaugurated the service, including Cesar Gomez, director of the Spanish Air Lines, which operates the service to the Canaries as well as between Madrid, Seville and Barcelona, and Ernesto Navarro, technical advisor of the National Aeronautical Bureau, participated for three days in the search of the Sahara for the Spanish military pilots Burquete and Nunez, who had been forced down in the desert.

During this search, the party in the Ford plane combed the Sahara from the air over a strip of territory 200 kilometers inland from the coast. The search ended when the lost fliers found their way to an outpost and reported themselves a safe.

Throughout the difficult flights over the desert and despite the ter-

The photograph shows the Ford tri-motor transport plane of the Spanish Air Lines surrounded by turbulent natives at Cabo Juby in Spanish West Africa, after its successful inauguration of air mail service between Madrid and the Canary Islands, and while the plane was being used in the search of the Sahara for the lost Spanish aviators, Burquete and Nunez.

At least the plane's three Wright 14-motors functioned perfectly, the pilots, Anadillo and Soriano, reported following the return of the party to Madrid. The plane, being equipped with radio, was in constant communication with the Spanish military base at Cabo Juby during the flights.

Daily Flight Planned

Upon his return to Madrid, Pilot Anadillo reported that in the round trip flight between Madrid and the Canary Islands, the flight over the desert in search of the lost aviators, the plane had flown 8,000 kilometers, approximately 5,000 miles, with perfect performance.

The inaugural flight in the Ford plane, which the Air Lines had operated in regular service between
